2 weeks of silence after a game breaking bug update. Even without a fix, information from the developer would be nice. Currently the game is unplayable. Do not purchase until issues are fixed.. This is an ok VR experience, but debatable if it is worth the price. It feels like walking around a city made out of cardboard paper. It looks more realistic in the screenshots (or on any 2D screen, probably) than with an actual headset on. It also looks like just a small downtown area is detailed, and the rest is unfinished. The border between the detailed and unfinished (flat) area is really visible and you can walk outside of it, so I hope they fix that soon.

There is a day and night cycle, but it's rather useless because the buildings don't cast any shadows and they don't light up at night. There is also no traffic, nothing animates, which reinforces the unreal, cardboard feeling, and reinforces the uselessness of the night time mode. The water is also just an ugly green blob and there isn't a single reflection in any window. All the geometry is nicely done though, and there are quite a few interesting, detailed buildings which hold up to closer inspection (but also many which don't). One more thing is that the very fast moving clouds did make me a bit nauseous on quite a few occasions.

It's fun for a few minutes, but then you wish it was a flight simulator or a virtual train set (or tycoon game). Or at least had some interesting overlays with street names, areas and buildings of interest, or even data visualization on population density, traffic or anything.

Hopefully, they will add a city I've actually been to in the future (London, Paris, Stockholm, Tokyo). I might pay for a pack of well made cities, but they'd have to be way more fleshed out than what's currently present.. for less than a dollar (using coupon), this is really a worth to buy game.

the graphics are good, lots of bloods are splattering.

there are many armors and weapons to buy about 10+ weapons n armors about 3 map to play? i dont know i forgot.

you got a meow sound everytime you got a hit from the monsters.

good game.. Your basic stars based TD. Fun but repetitive.. buggy at launch, and matchmaking was empty but unique and fun with friends.

Just like MTG card game. This is an incredibly frustrating game. I love the concept but coming from the Total War franchise, the battles are too frenetic and unforgiving of mistakes. The campaign mode likewise features your enemies amassing huge stacks of extremely high level units, especially in the late game when Spoilers start rampaging. I love the storyline and the concept but the game play is simply too difficult for this player accustomed to the normal or high difficulty levels of Total War games.. Bought it, played it and I love it. So far it's very well written and interesting. However, I can't wait for a small walkthrough to be out since I have some difficulties completing missions that are important to the story line. Maybe I'm just bad at it ?

Edit: The True ending is quite easy to get, which I find extremely nice since sometimes it can be TOO hard to find it by yourself. This game has a lot of replay value since each vessel and body is different, you have 4 different combination that changes the story a little. I also like the fact that you can't complete all of the quests in one playthrough, so if you really want to do them all, you will need multiple and each are quite interesting to do, even if they might be simple. All in all, this game was worth the wait and an incredible sequel to Freak-Quency. I can't wait to see what the company will give us next ! But whatever they decide to make in the future, they sure got me as a huge fan not only with the game but also because of how nice they are.. screwed up my graphics. so many glitches. Fun Clicker game. Lot of upgrades, missions, challenges, and things to keep you busy.. FUCG ♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥ GAME.
